

our leaders shining before us, we certainly can look for victory."

Mr. Cassidy's motion was then adopted unanimously. A motion was made that the convention adjourn until five o'clock at which hour the committee of six appointed to settle contests would be ready to report. This was agreed to.

THE LANCASTER DELEGATION.

Hensel and Metzman Selected for Delegates to Lancaster—Grier Breathing Threatenings and Slang.

Editorial Dispatch to the INTELLIGENCER.

HARRISBURG, Wednesday, April 28, a. m.—Thus far all efforts at a compromise have failed, for reasons fully stated in the morning papers.

The four delegates from the Southern district of Lancaster county met last evening and agreed on Brubaker for committee on credentials, Raub on resolutions, and Rhoads on organization; Kerns for vice president, George Diller for state committee, and W. U. Hensel for delegate to Cincinnati.

A majority of the upper district delegates agreed on Hoover for committee on credentials, Youtz on organization, Weidner on resolutions, Given vice president, M. S. Moore for state committee, and B. J. McGarran for national delegate.

The seven delegates ratified this choice of national delegates and chose C. J. Rhoads and E. L. Hambricht alternates, and J. G. McSparran elector.

Owing to a death in Mr. Given's family, he may leave before the convention is over and that event says he will substitute W. Hayes Grier or H. M. North. In that event Mr. Hensel will go into the convention as a substitute for Mr. Brubaker.

Grier has been threatening late last night to enter a contest against Youtz, Weidner and Hoover on frivolous grounds only intended to keep them out of the convention in its temporary organization.

Mr. Speer, Maj. Filler and other so-called Wallace men say such a contest would be "infamous," and of nearly fifty Lancaster countians here, not one, unless directly interested, fails to condemn such an outrageous proceeding.

Hayes Grier's Contest.

All contests in both delegations to the state convention to be withdrawn, and all what are termed "paper" or bogus contests throughout the state to be done away with, and only the genuine contests, such as exist in Crawford county, or that of Hayes Grier, in Lancaster, to be sent to the committee on contests.

Personal of the Convention.

Harrisburg dispatch to N. Y. Sun.

The convention is the largest ever assembled here and the finest body of Pennsylvania Democrats that was ever gathered together on such an occasion. Nearly every man of prominence in the party is here, including every Democratic congressman from Pennsylvania except Clymer, who is off to St. Louis getting married. They and nearly all the other prominent men are in accord in urging policy of harmony in the party, a cessation of personal strife, and a subordinating of all factional issues to those which concern the vital interests of the state organization.

The average feeling of the convention is for peace, against intrusions, against the unit rule, and in support of the report of the two-thirds rule in national conventions. Hancock has probably more friends in the convention than any other candidate. Tilden has the best organization and the ablest men. Bayard, Seymour, Field, Hendricks, Black and Randall all have a following, but it does not look as though any man was nearly as strong as the field, and on a square vote a majority of the delegates would declare against any one man whose friends sought to instruct him.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—For the Middle Atlantic and New England states, stationary possibly followed by falling barometer, diminishing northerly winds, possibly shifting to warmer, southerly, party cloudy weather.

DIED FROM EATING CAKE.

A Young Man Eats Twenty-Five Molasses Cakes at a Wedding Supper and Dies the Next Morning.

Omance, Eastern Virginia.

We do not know who first invented cake, or upon what occasion, or in what age of the world it first became indissolubly associated with wedding occasions. It is, however, an incident in every-day experience that a man on his way to a wedding, as in the ordinary occasions of life, should hunger, and should wish to refresh the inner man. This, unhappily, was Lloyd Hopkins's experience. Hopkins, who was a hale, hearty robust young man, while on his way to a marriage feast, a few days since, felt an overwhelming desire for cake, and accordingly stepping into a store boasted that he could eat twenty-five molasses cakes. The proprietor, or some one standing by, offered to pay for that number provided Hopkins would eat them, the latter to pay for the little cake put under the number. At fifteen, Hopkins declared himself full, but the pay being demanded, he persevered until the whole twenty-five were consumed. This was charity to a fault on the part of the merchant. Hopkins then proceeded to the wedding, where he further ate a hearty supper. On his way home he was taken sick, laid out all night, and on arriving home the next morning was taken with a congestive chill and died suddenly; thus demonstrating the scriptural warnings against intemperance, gluttony, &c.

A Little Girl's Terrible Death.

A curious and shocking accident occurred in Readington, a small town about eight miles from Flemington, N. J., on Friday last, resulting in the death of the daughter of Peter Hyler, an influential farmer. The little girl, four years old, accompanied her mother to feed the chickens, and after the mother returned, remained near the wagon house to play. When half an hour had elapsed the mother started in search of the little one. She was horrified to find the dead body of her child suspended by the neck from the door of a corn crib, which is built in the wagon house. The door is composed of boards, which slide up and down in a groove. Some of the boards had previously been shoved up, where they had caught fast, thus leaving an opening some four feet from the ground. It is supposed that in playing the little child put her head through this opening and swung her feet playfully against the boards forming the lower part of the door. The jar must have caused the upper boards to fall, and, catching the child's head, they impaled her and choked her to death.
